WESTERN SETTLEMENTS.

[Concluded.]

The settlement of the tract of country comprised in the new county of Howard seems to me like enchantment. Where nothing but wild beasts of the forest, and savage hunters were to be met with in 1809, now are seen thousands of domestic animals, and a compact settlement of industrious farmers, many of whom are in very easy circumstances. The almost impenetrable forest, which I passed through in 1809, of which not a tree had received the stroke of an axe, is now nearly all swept away, and in its stead are seen rising comfortable habitations, merchant's store houses, a Court house, and all the appendages of a seat of justice. Merchants, traders, lawyers, physicians, licensed tavern-keepers abound; mechanics find their account in removing there, such as smiths, saddlers, and a variety of others; there are several common schools; two or three reputable preachers, and a weekly newspaper is soon to be printed there by two gentlemen of fine talents; two towns have been laid off, and I am told the lots sell well; another is talked of. It is computed that upwards of an hundred families moved to the county of Howard, from Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and Virginia, during the last winter; and I do not think I risk any thing when I venture to say that the emigrations to this county for 1817 will amount to three hundred families at the close of the year. Indeed I should be safe in saying five hundred. I expect the settlements will extend upwards during the present year, to within twenty miles of Fort Osage. The county of Howard embraces (I mean the part settled) as fine a tract of country as any under Heaven; whether we consider its fertility, climate, or healthfulness. A well cultivated field will produce one year with another, 60 bushels of corn and 35 of wheat per acre. I have averaged 80 bushels of corn per acre at this place, but my field is small and highly cultivated.

I see, Oats, Barley, Irish Potatoes, Red and White clover, Timothy and Blue Grass turn out extremely well. They raise cotton sufficient for family consumption at Boone's Lick. Sweet Potatoes do pretty well, our kitchen gardens are not excelled by any of our country; cabbages, lettuce, peas and onions are remarkably fine; hops, raspberries, gooseberries, strawberries and currants grow wild and in great abundance all over the country. The Timber is walnut, hickory, a variety of oaks, locust, ash, cotton tree, paper, pecan, coffee nut, sycamore, elm, maple, sugar tree, hackberry, willow, box, elder, some pine, and some red cedar. The undergrowth, is hazel, arrow wood, red berry, plum, crab apple, wild pea-vine and rushes. A variety of grapes, and some wild cherry and persimmon.—So much for the settlement of the Missouri river, particularly that of Boone's Lick, or Howard county.

I shall now speak of the Missouri Territory generally. By reference to the map you will find it embraces an immense tract of country, including within its limits, the Arkansas, White, St. Francis, Merimack, Gasconade, Osage, Missouri, and many other large rivers—and I believe it embraces some of the worst lands as well as some of the best in the western country.

The climate is generally salubrious and healthy, and the face of the country beautiful, romantic, and inviting.—Lead and Iron ore are in very great abundance, salt springs plenty. In short, nature has been truly bountiful in the distribution of her favors, in this territory. The Missouri is navigable for large boats 3000 miles, the Arkansas upwards of 1200, the White river 300, St. Francis 300, Gasconade 200, Osage 350.—St. Louis is the principal commercial town in the territory. It has from 350 to 400 houses, is beautifully situated on the Mississippi river, twenty miles below the mouth of the Missouri. It is growing very rapidly, has at present near 50 regular mercantile houses, many merchants, and a proportion of the common establishments to be usually found in towns. The trade of the place consists in lead, furs and peltries and other Indian articles, pork, beef, salt, tallow, flour, wheat, corn, oats, dry goods, groceries, &c. Business is commonly pretty brisk, and the merchant's generally grow rich, in a few years. Dry goods are brought to St. Louis, from Philadelphia and Baltimore. They are wagoned to Pittsburgh, and from thence by water to St. Louis; the cost of transportation from Philadelphia to St. Louis, does not exceed ten cents per lb. House rent at St. Louis is very high, and lots for building are nearly as high as they are in some of our largest cities, and rising very rapidly; lands near town are from 5 to $200 an acre. Those lands adjoining St. Louis are worth 600 dollars to 1000 per acre. Society in St. Louis pretty good and fast improving; provision markets tolerably well supplied, and pretty cheap. Laborers are very dear—say from 15 to 30 dollars per month and find them—good boarding is 15 dollars per month, including lodging—tavern prices are yet high—Building is very extensive. Distance from St. Louis to New-Orleans by water, 1500 miles—freight from New-Orleans to St. Louis, 5 dollars per hundred—our groceries chiefly come from there.

The Missouri territory will become an independent state in a few years without any doubt. Its population must be already great enough to entitle it admission into the union.

If there was any prospect of my being able to snatch as much leisure as would be necessary to write this incoherent and unconnected scrawl over again in time, I should certainly do so, but there is no such prospect.—Such as it is, therefore, you must be indulgent enough to put up with it, & make the most of it you can. It has been written amidst continual interruptions, and I am compelled to conclude it abruptly.

For myself, I have only, briefly, to inform you that I have been in the public service in this country since the fall of 1805. In October 1808, I came here to make an establishment for government pertaining to Indian affairs—80 regular troops came with me as a guard—the same number are here now in garrison. My office is agent of Indian trade, and sub agent of Indian affairs, for which I receive 1665 dollars per annum, and furnished one clerk, one interpreter of Indian languages, and a comfortable house and furniture at public expense. Many Indians of various tribes resort to this agency, giving me at times a great deal of trouble and perplexity. I am obliged to take my leave, sir, abruptly. If you have leisure, I shall be at all times happy to hear from you—direct to me at St. Louis, Missouri Territory.

I am sir, very respectfully,
Your most obt. Serv't.

G. SIBLEY.
Mr. James G. Mink,
Henderson, N. Carolina.

THE ART OF PAYING AGREABLE COMPLIMENTS.

This art, or the faculty of exciting agreeable sensations by saying civil things, in terms not so blunt as to offend delicacy, nor so extravagant as to outrage the moral sense, is considered an enviable talent in conversation, and is an object of ambition to the disciples of Chesterfield.

I doubt very much, however, whether the greatest adept of that polite nobleman's school ever offered a compliment more effectually acceptable than one of my subscribers did a few days since, in the following note, attached to an agent's letter:—W—K—, presents his compliments to Mr. Osborn, and—closes him five dollars for one year's subscription for the Watchman.

There was one circumstance attending this complimentary note, which gives a thing of this kind its chief zest—and that is the unequivocal voucher of sincerity which accompanied it:—for the mischief is in it if there can be any thing like a joke in paying money, in these times: Indeed I find it a very serious affair, and by no means a laughing matter.

My friends may call me vain, if they please: but I frankly confess, that the greatest profusion of such compliments as the above would not cause me to blush, or feel the least confusion! And if all or the most part of my subscribers, who have not yet paid in advance, will, within a short time, manifest only half as much real civility each, as W—K—, I will enter the lists pen in hand, as their champion, and haist, in defiance of all galsayers, that the people of Delaware and its vicinity, are the most polite and agreeable of any in the world.

ALEXANDRIA: THURSDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1817.

LORD AMHERST AND BONAPARTE.

So little has been said of late about Bonaparte, that the account of him just arrived, and of his interview with Lord Amherst, is quite refreshing—like an early salad in spring, or a draught of lemonade in a scorching day of July or August. The conversations related by Mr. Surgeon Warden, as having passed between him and Bony, are now known to be no better than impudent fictions, and the people of England and America will be more cautious about giving credit to the trumped up stories of travellers, or those still greater wholesale dealers in lies, newspapers. The voracity of the multitude in swallowing Munchausen stories is great, but not infinite. Absurdities will always go down, but surely it may be hoped that the time will come when moral impossibilities will, like Macbeth's Amen, stick in the throats of the multitude. The hungry jackass himself, if we may credit Sterne, will reject this.

What comes from such high authority as that of Lord Amherst, however, may be believed; but then, a question arises, does the intelligence to which we allude really come from Lord Amherst? We have it only from newspapers: to believe which we take to be rather a more desperate effort than to believe Mr. Warden himself. Indeed, in these cases, our safest guide is the internal evidence of the intelligence itself. That Lord Amherst and his suite arrived in England in the Caesar, from Batavia, we dare say is true; that he touched at St. Helena equally so; and that he was introduced to Bonaparte we think highly probable; although it has appeared under the disadvantages we mention. For the rest we can only say that we do not see any thing in it impossible or improbable. The passage respecting bleeding and calomel has a little the aspect of a leaf torn out of Warden's work; yet, when we recollect the pertinacity of Bonaparte in any thing and every thing he ever took into his head, we cannot reasonably think of calling it in question; though, putting that part of the ex-emperor's character out of consideration, we should have given it no credit, if it were only for the sake of Mr. Warden.

But that which seems to us more than any other part to confer verisimilitude on the whole is the part which relates to the cause of his lordship's failure in the object of his mission. Every part of which is emphatically ridiculous, and no less characteristic of all the persons concerned in it. The fastidious, absurd formalities of the old despots of the world being no less strongly characterized in the conduct of the emperor of China than the dirty dishonorable ebsequiousness, when it answers the purposes of craft and policy, which constitutes a leading feature in the new tyranny, is characterised in the observation of Bonaparte; while Lord Amherst's conduct stands between both in a state of prudent and not discreditable mediocrity. That Bony would order his ambassador to kiss the emperor of China's great toe, or even to go further and fare worse. Nay, to do it himself, if it answered a politic purpose, cannot be doubted by any one who has heard of the accommodating temper with which he turned mussulman to carry a point of policy with the Turks. We do not deny that such an act of condescension may be policy, according to the new code, but we must say that we prefer to it the notions of the old statesmen; who always considered an act of humiliation and dishonor, however profitable, as no policy at all.

What effect the letter to the Prince Regent will have, it would be folly to affirm. We may, however, venture to offer an opinion upon it; and we will do so sincerely. Were the Prince Regent at liberty to comply with the dictates of his own heart, we do firmly believe that Bonaparte never would have seen St. Helena. How far a timid, cautious policy on the one hand, and on the other an enlarged courageous benevolence, may assuage and divide in opinion the different members of his cabinet, we have not the means of judging; but we are persuaded that neither the prince nor his ministers have ever had it in their power to do more than assuage by favorable regulations the fate of their captive, which was, no doubt, fully discussed and prepared for him even before the battle of Waterloo. That he will be brought to England when it will be impossible for his presence in Europe to endanger the tranquillity of that quarter of the world is likely; but certainly not before. They, therefore, are not his friends who, by vaporing about his popularity in France and other places, demonstrate that, hopeless as they must be of his ever reaching the throne, he would still, if he were now in Europe, have partizans enough to do much mischief, occasion some bloodshed, and disturb, for some time, the peace of the world.

Messrs. Stonestreet, Bawner, Gardiner and Daniel Jenifer, four federalists, are elected delegates to the next general assembly of this state for Charles County.

Daniel S. Dexter, a master commandant in the navy of the United States, and the commanding naval officer of the station at Erie, has been tried upon charges and specifications preferred against him by Lieut. John A. West, of the United States navy, and unanimously acquitted in a full and honorable manner.

FROM CHILL.

Ship Minerva, capt. Chase, of this port, arrived at Edgartown on Thursday.—Left Valparaiso 24th May. News reached the 20th of the capture by the Patriots of Talcahuana which was the last place on the coast of Chili that the Royalists held. The whale ships generally were successful—Capt. Chase left brig Rambler of Providence, April 4th, 83 days out.

Talcahuana or Talcahuama lies in the bay of Concepcion, and forms the port of the interior city of that name, which is nearly 3 leagues distant. This place has been taken and retaken several times during the present revolutionary struggle, and its importance is so commanding, that a surrender of the city of Concepcion has generally been followed as a matter of course. Valparaiso is situated about ten leagues from the former place.

Newport, Oct. 4.

The Patriot armed brig Gen. McGregor, capt. French, arrived on Block Island on Friday, the 26th ult. in 10 days from Amelia. From several seamen who were landed from her, we learn, that a few days previous to their sailing from Amelia, gen. McGregor and lady came on board, for the purpose of leaving the island, he having resigned the command to col. Irving and Sheriff Hubbard. This brig sailed from Amelia on the morning of the 16th of Sept. with gen. McGregor and lady, and Mr. Ferguson, the harbor-master, on board. The British schr. Venus, (on board of which was the famous col. Woodbine, who was the owner of the schr.) sailed from Amelia in company with the brig. The second day out, col. Woodbine sent his boat on board the brig, with invitation to gen. McGregor and lady and Mr. Ferguson, to take passage on board his schr. (supposed to be bound to New-Providence,) with which they readily complied.

TRACT SOCIETIES.

When Voltaire, and others of his literary band, contemplated the subversion of Christianity, one powerful engine in the hands of these philosophers was, to disseminate gratis, little tracts of infidelity amongst the poor and illiterate classes. Every man was thus furnished with a ready made and popular argument against the faith that he professed, at the expense of these philosophers.—The consequences are manifest—they have been written on the pages of that vast folio of all crime and abomination denominated the French revolution, in characters of blood. In the contemplation of such a spectacle, we are almost induced to repeat a wish of Dr. Johnson's, that virtue might call off to her aid. Since that period, christianity has undertaken to fight infidelity with its own weapons. Tract societies are now established in almost every part of the civilized world, for the promulgation of gospel truths, and their success has been unparalleled.—The silver trumpet of Zion has been blown in the benighted regions of idolatrous darkness. Thus has Voltaire and his whole band of philosophers contributed to the dissemination of those very religious truths which they laboured so unceasingly to overturn: so true is that passage of divine inspiration, that "the wrath of man shall work the praise of God, and that the remainder of that wrath he will restrain." We cannot quit this subject which we shall very shortly resume, without noticing one circumstance. How many christians, while they beheld the successful exertions of Voltaire and of the other philosophers, for the extinction of christianity, were led almost to doubt of the superintendence of a Divine Providence! How many, when they beheld the abominations of the French revolution, were induced to cast despairing eyes to heaven! Yet what was the result? It was this—that this very engine, formed with such labor and skill for the extermination of christianity, has more than all others, contributed to its advancement. Voltaire may be said therefore, without much violence of expression, to have blown the trumpet of salvation. He invented an engine for the demolition of christianity, which has proved the downfall and destruction of his own infidelity. Were that philosopher now living, how would he lament that this engine of his own invention should have fallen into the hands of christianity? how would he lament that he had himself done so much to accelerate the downfall of his own infidelity.—Yet this a noon-day fact that can be proved by the establishment of tract societies, by the reports of the commissioners who have attended the promulgation and distribution of those works that have wrought so surprising a change amongst nations, both civilized and savage. The angel who was seen by the disciple John, in the island of Patmos, flying with the everlasting gospel in his hand, appears to be now upon the wing. We are probably near the consummation of all things—near the period predicted when all nations shall bow at the footstool of the Redeemer of the Universe. [Red. Rep.]

Foreign Articles.

Stockholm, July 11.

BLUE RULES IN SWEDEN. The governments of Kronsborg and Calmar, in the province of Smalard, are the first in which decisive regulations have been made for the re-introduction of ancient northern frugality. The deputies of the peasantry have not only expressed their will to lay aside the use of all foreign articles, to wear no kind of stuffs but such as they manufacture themselves, or to drink any other liquors than such as are made in the country; but there is also a proposal under deliberation to stamp all the present cloth made of foreign materials, to lay a penalty of from five to ten dollars on the unstamped. Further to effect among persons of rank an association against the use of foreign strong liquors, rich stuffs, confectionary, and preserves, drinking coffee in the afternoon, and expensive marriages, burials, and christenings. The parish of Oskelbo has resolved upon all this; also that the drinking of what is called gask, or coffee and brandy mixed, that two glasses of brandy shall never be drunk directly one after the other; and at entertainments only two glasses at table; that persons under twenty years of age shall be prohibited the use of brandy, coffee and tobacco; that more than three or four dishes shall not be allowed of any meal, only a wedding four or five. The wedding entertainments not to last above two days, and no one to use any furniture and household utensils but such as are made in the country, under pain of being excluded from all companies as an unpatriotic citizen, and being regarded with contempt. This agreement is to be read annually from the pulpit.

London, Aug. 20.

A letter from a gentleman of the highest respectability in the county of Clare, to a friend in Dublin, says.—"As to the state of the county, we are as peaceable as possible; but I believe, we may thank, in a great degree, the police, who are the best effective troops, if I may call them so, that we could possibly have."

From an extract of a letter of the 6 inst. from Madeira, it appears that the Azores are held under blockade by squadron of Buenos Ayres privateers.

Corn Exchange, Aug. 29.—Our wheat trade was brisk this morning, in consequence of the continuance of the unfavorable state of the weather which has brought several country buyers to market, and what sales were made, were at 4s. per quarter higher than on Monday—Barley, beans, peas, and oats, are full 1s. per quarter dearer, the demand for each having increased, to the state of the weather.

Paris, Aug. 25.

The duke of Wellington, decidedly quitted Paris, for Sedan, on Thursday, the 28th. The king of Prussia a few days later. His majesty was at the British Ambassador's assembly on Friday last, en fraise, and in boots. I have described to you, in my letter of Saturday, the routine of his occupations.

A paper of this morning announces, that M. le Duc Grammont is named Grand Berger. He thus leaves vacant one of the four places of captain of the Guard, which circumstance confirms the rumour of the Duc de Felre being appointed to succeed to it. The list of Presidents which was officially printed yesterday, is remarkable for its impartiality. Many respectable persons, whose opinions are at variance with those of the ministry, have been nominated, in the conviction that in an affair of such solemnity, all private bias will give way to public duty. Peers are excluded.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.

An event which took place on the 21st of last month, in the environs of Abo, has created great alarm among the inhabitants. On that day, towards noon, the ground of a village, 22 versts from that city, suddenly sunk to the depth of many fathoms, and dragged with it 13 houses, which were completely submerged, (preserving, however, their situation) so that no trace of them could be discovered. A similar falling in of the earth occurred in the same place in 1755 and 1788. Among other causes, this phenomenon is ascribed to the swampy marsh upon which the village is built, and to the river which flows through it. The gentle is occasioned great loss to the inhabitants. The perpetuated motion, so long sought in vain, appears capable of being effected through the medium of galvanism. French physicians has in his cabinet galvanic piles, sixteen inches high, alternately attract a pretty heavy iron ball. The continued oscillation of the iron gives motion to a pendulum which never stopped for the last three years. A physician is now endeavoring to render this movement an isochronism which render it more useful.—Ministerial Yesterday's Mail.

New-York, October 13.

FROM MADEIRA.

We learn, by the Louisa, that the ship Friends, Ryan, from Portsmouth, land, had touched at Madeira, having board 97 officers, belonging to Lord Wellington's army; by one of whom Captain Johnson was informed it was intention to join the Patriot army South America, and that 2 more ships, the same destination, and with a similar intention, were to sail from England shortly after them.

Captain J. also informs, that the British transport 406 touched at Madeira, having on board upwards of 180 Negroes, bound to the coast of Africa, who had been discharged from British men of war, a consequence of their having no further employ for them.

LATEST FROM EUROPE.

Letters by this arrival state that the crops of grain, &c. are very great—that the harvest is likely to be very abundant, and that the prices for colonial produce, cotton, &c. were improving.

A Brussels paper of Aug. 24th, states, that the American ambassadors, Messrs. Gallatin and Easton, were then at the Hague.

The same paper announces the arrival of count Regnaud de St. Angelly, from New-York, via Antwerp, and of his having received his passports to proceed to Aix La Chapelle. (accompanied by two guards) the present residence of his lady.

A Brussels paper of Aug. 28th, states, that the count de St. Angelly had been ordered to proceed to Knigsburg.

An article from Warsaw of Aug. 21st, states, that the harvest had commenced and was unusually abundant.

INCOMBUSTIBILITY.

At the Theatre.

It is proposed to represent, to an enlightened public, this most extraordinary Phenomenon, which has excited the astonishment of all the learned of Europe.
It certainly cannot fail to excite wonder, to see an individual rub a piece of very hot iron over the naked skin of different parts of the body, such as the face, arms, hands, and even over the tongue, without producing the slightest injury to the parts touched by it;—to drink oil so boiling hot as to melt a pewter spoon dipped in it;—to hold melted lead in the mouth and to return it therefrom in a hard state; yet these wonderful Phenomena will be exhibited.

It is hoped that a numerous concourse of spectators will crown the wishes of him who will omit nothing to give satisfaction to the public, especially as it is the first time it has been represented here.

The Exhibition will be made on SATURDAY EVENING, at 7 o'clock.

Land for Sale.

If early application is made, I will dispose of 400 acres of the CEDAR GROVE tract of land. There is surplus timber and fire wood enough on the part I purpose selling to pay, with judicious management, more than half the purchase money, at the price I ask. The situation is healthy, and the land fertile. Contiguity to market is also among its advantages; it being within less than a mile of Mr. Jonathan Janney's mill, where the Alexandria price may be had for grain. Persons wishing to purchase will apply to the subscriber, residing at Cedar Grove, ten miles below Alexandria, and one below Janney's mill.

A valuable Farm for Sale.

THE SUBSCRIBER will sell, on reasonable terms, a valuable and productive farm of 600 acres, or thereabouts—being part of the lands of the late Richard Brent, lying on Kettle Run in the county of Prince William, in the state of Virginia—20 miles from the Occoquan Mills—35 miles from Alexandria, and about the same distance from Georgetown and the City of Washington. This farm lies in the centre of an excellent neighborhood—is handsomely situated—abundantly watered, and has upon it an ample proportion of wood. The soil is naturally strong, and a considerable portion of it has for some years past, been cultivated according to the most approved rules of modern husbandry. Possession will be given on the first day of January next. The terms upon which this property will be sold, will be made known upon application to George L. Brent, of Stafford County, Va. or to the subscriber living in Alexandria.

Rich Kenhawa Lands for Sale or Barter

I WILL sell or exchange, for property in this district or its vicinity, a valuable tract of land in Mason county, Virginia, situate on the Great Kenhawa River, at the mouth of Eighteen Mile Creek, distant from Point Pleasant about eighteen miles. This tract binds upon the river, and contains by patent one thousand and fifty acres, a large proportion of which is rich bottom. The title is old, and indisputable, having been located and surveyed by Gen. Washington before the Revolution. What may be considered as adding much to its value is the passage of the western road through it. By a reference to Mr. Madison's map of Virginia, the situation of the land may be designated. For Sale.

THE Tract of Land whereon I reside, containing 709 acres, situate on the Little River Turnpike Road, and adjoining the town at Fairfax court house, about 10 miles from Alexandria and 14 miles from Georgetown and Washington city. It lies handsomely and is extremely well watered; about three hundred acres in wood. This tract might be divided into three or four lots with great convenience, as to cleared land, wood and water.

Also,

One other Tract of Land adjoining, containing 606 acres, nearly half in wood—lies well and is well watered—with a great proportion of good meadow land. This tract might conveniently be divided into three or four lots.

Also,

One other Tract of Land, containing 492 acres, adjacent to the first mentioned—lies well and well watered—to a considerable improvement, with a sufficiency of wood and timber. This tract might be divided into two suitable lots.

A more minute description is thought unnecessary, as no person would purchase without viewing the lands, which can be shown at any time.

These tracts will be sold as they are, or divided into lots to suit purchasers, and will be sold a bargain, if immediate application be made. Possession of the first and last mentioned tracts can be had at any time, the other the first day of January next. The terms will be a small proportion in cash; for the balance any reasonable credit, on being well secured, and interest paid annually.

For Sale.

A TRACT of land, lying on the North Fork of Quantico Creek, and only two miles from the town of Dumfries, (known by the name of Clifton) containing about 250 acres. About two thirds of this tract is in wood—a part of the cleared land well enclosed. There is on this tract a good dwelling house, stables, &c.; and convenient to the dwelling house a grist mill, containing two pairs of stones—one of burr, new, five feet diameter; the other Cologne. The mill is lately built. Every part of the gear new, and completely fitted for merchant work. The mill better secured from floods than any I am acquainted with, having but a foot of dam, with a short race, to admit of fall for a twenty-four feet overshot water wheel. In fact, the land is of good quality; the situation handsome and healthy; the stream a good one; and the mill new, spacious, and well finished, and being in the most direct road for a great part of the produce that comes to Dumfries to pass it. Possession can be had immediately, and the terms known by application to me, at Dumfries.
